

History of Feminism

Routledge Historical Resources History of Feminism

www.routledgehistoricalresources.com/feminism

History of Feminism is the first part of the new Routledge Historical Resources online programme that will give academics and students an in-depth research tool for studying the long 19th Century through thematic collections.

The resource is a carefully curated collection of materials from across the Taylor & Francis collection in partnership with the Academic Editor. Focused on the long Nineteenth Century of Feminism (1776-1928) History of Feminism features key books, book chapters, and journal articles from Taylor & Francis' extensive range of published materials.

Every article has been cross-referenced and hyperlinked to make further research as simple as possible. Our rich metadata at chapter and article level makes search and research on the topic efficient and effective. Users can refine searches by subject, region, period, organization, notable figures and contributors as well as conduct keyword searches.

Content is arranged into 8 key subject categories, each with their own short subject introductions, to assist research and study, and newly commissioned thematic essays provide an insightful overview for 16 vital topics within feminism.

Subject areas covered by History of Feminism include:

- Education
- Empire
- Literature and Writings
- Movements and Ideologies
- Politics and Law
- Religion and Belief
- Society and Culture
- Women at Home

Key Features of this resource:

- 1,000's of chapters of primary and secondary source content, plus more than 100 journal articles from Taylor and Francis
- Fully searchable text and detailed metadata makes content discovery easy
- Sources can be cited at the click of a button available on every entry
- Sources can be browsed by subject, place, period and notable figures, or searched by key terms
- 16 thematic essays from experts in the field
- Primary source content made available electronically for the first time

For more information and to sign up for a FREE institutional trial, please contact your Routledge/Taylor & Francis sales representative, or visit www.routledgehistoricalresources.com/feminism.